During a Pandemic Flu, Respiratory Etiquette should be strictly practiced.

Remain Calm and practice Respiratory Etiquette

During a pandemic, resources will be taxed. There may not be a vaccine available and anti-flu medications will likely be in short supply. Therefore, the best line of defense for you and your family is to practice "respiratory etiquette" in order to avoid contracting the flu:

- Wash your hands often . Use soap and water or an alcohol-based hand cleaner.
- Cough or sneeze into a tissue or into the sleeve of your upper arm to avoid spreading germs.
- Try to avoid close contact with people who are ill.
- Do not share eating and beverage utensils.
- Stay home if you are ill.
- Try to avoid crowded meeting areas.
- If possible maintain at least three feet between you and others.
- Limit or avoid shaking hands.

PRIOR PLANNING MAKES SENSE

The likelihood that you and your family will survive a house fire depends as much on having a working smoke detector and an exit strategy, as on a well-trained fire department. The same is true for surviving an influenza pandemic. We must have the tools and plans in place to make it on our own, at least for a period of time, no matter where we are when disaster strikes. Just like having a working smoke detector, preparing for the unexpected makes sense.

1

Educate yourself now about a possible pandemic flu. Understand how it could affect you personally and professionally. Talk to your family, church, children's school or daycare and your place of work about their pandemic flu plans.

Get and Stay Informed about Pandemic Flu

Health and emergency officials say it is not a matter of if, but when a pandemic flu will occur. Recently, a highly pathogenic H5N1 strain of avian (bird) flu has many scientists concerned. If and when it becomes easily passed from human to human, it could become a worldwide flu outbreak, or pandemic.

The steps outlined in this brochure will help you prepare for a pandemic flu. You can also go to the Center for Disease Control's website: www.pandemicflu.gov and the Collier County Health Department's website: www.collierhealthdept.org for more information about preparing for a pandemic flu.

It is important to get informed and stay informed!

2

NOW is the time to build a supply of foods and beverages that are most easily tolerated should you or someone in your household come down with the flu.

Make a Flu Supply Kit

In case you or a loved one comes down with the flu, you should create a flu supply kit. The items listed below are foods and beverages that are most likely to be tolerated during a bout with the flu. The kit is meant to last fourteen days, the length of time a flu usually lasts.

- 4 boxes of soft tissues
- 14 cans or boxes of soup (think of a soup that may taste good to you when you are ill, chicken noodle?)
- 14 cans of gingerale or 7-UP
- 14 bottles of a sports drink of your choice
- 4 large (64 oz) juice bottles of choice
- Plenty of water (bottled or from the tap)
- 2 boxes of saltines
- 14 servings of jello (boxed or pre-made)
- 14 servings of pudding (boxed or pre-made)
- 2 packages of popsicles (100% juice)
- thermometer for taking your temperature

Note that when someone has the flu, they usually do not have an appetite. The foods listed above are meant to keep a person hydrated. Staying hydrated will increase the likelihood that one will recover from the flu as quickly as possible.

Do not wait until you have the flu to build this kit. Going grocery shopping will be the last errand you will feel like doing if you are ill. Protect yourself and others by building your Flu Supply Kit now.

3

In addition to the Flu Supply Kit, we recommend that you also stock up on two weeks worth of foods that you enjoy.

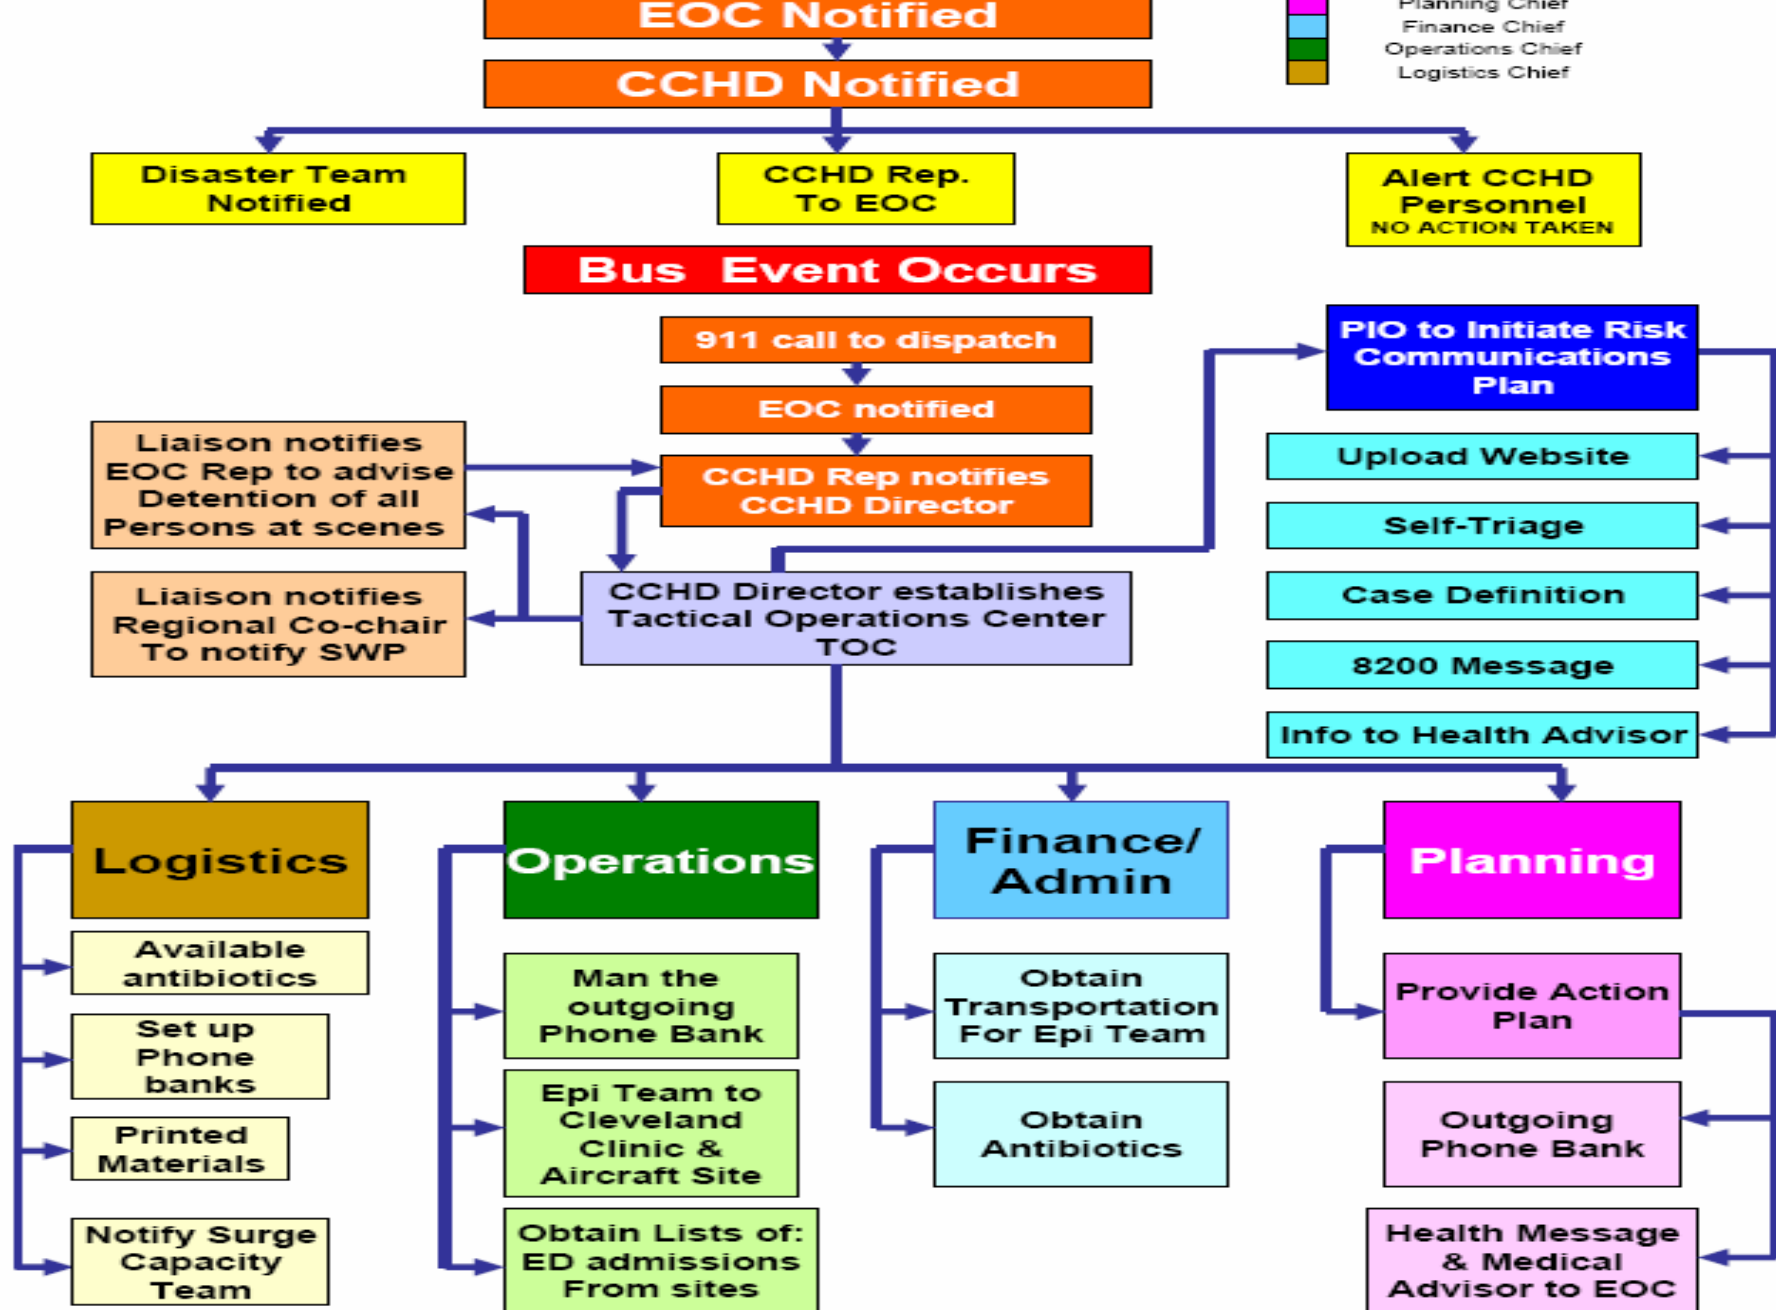

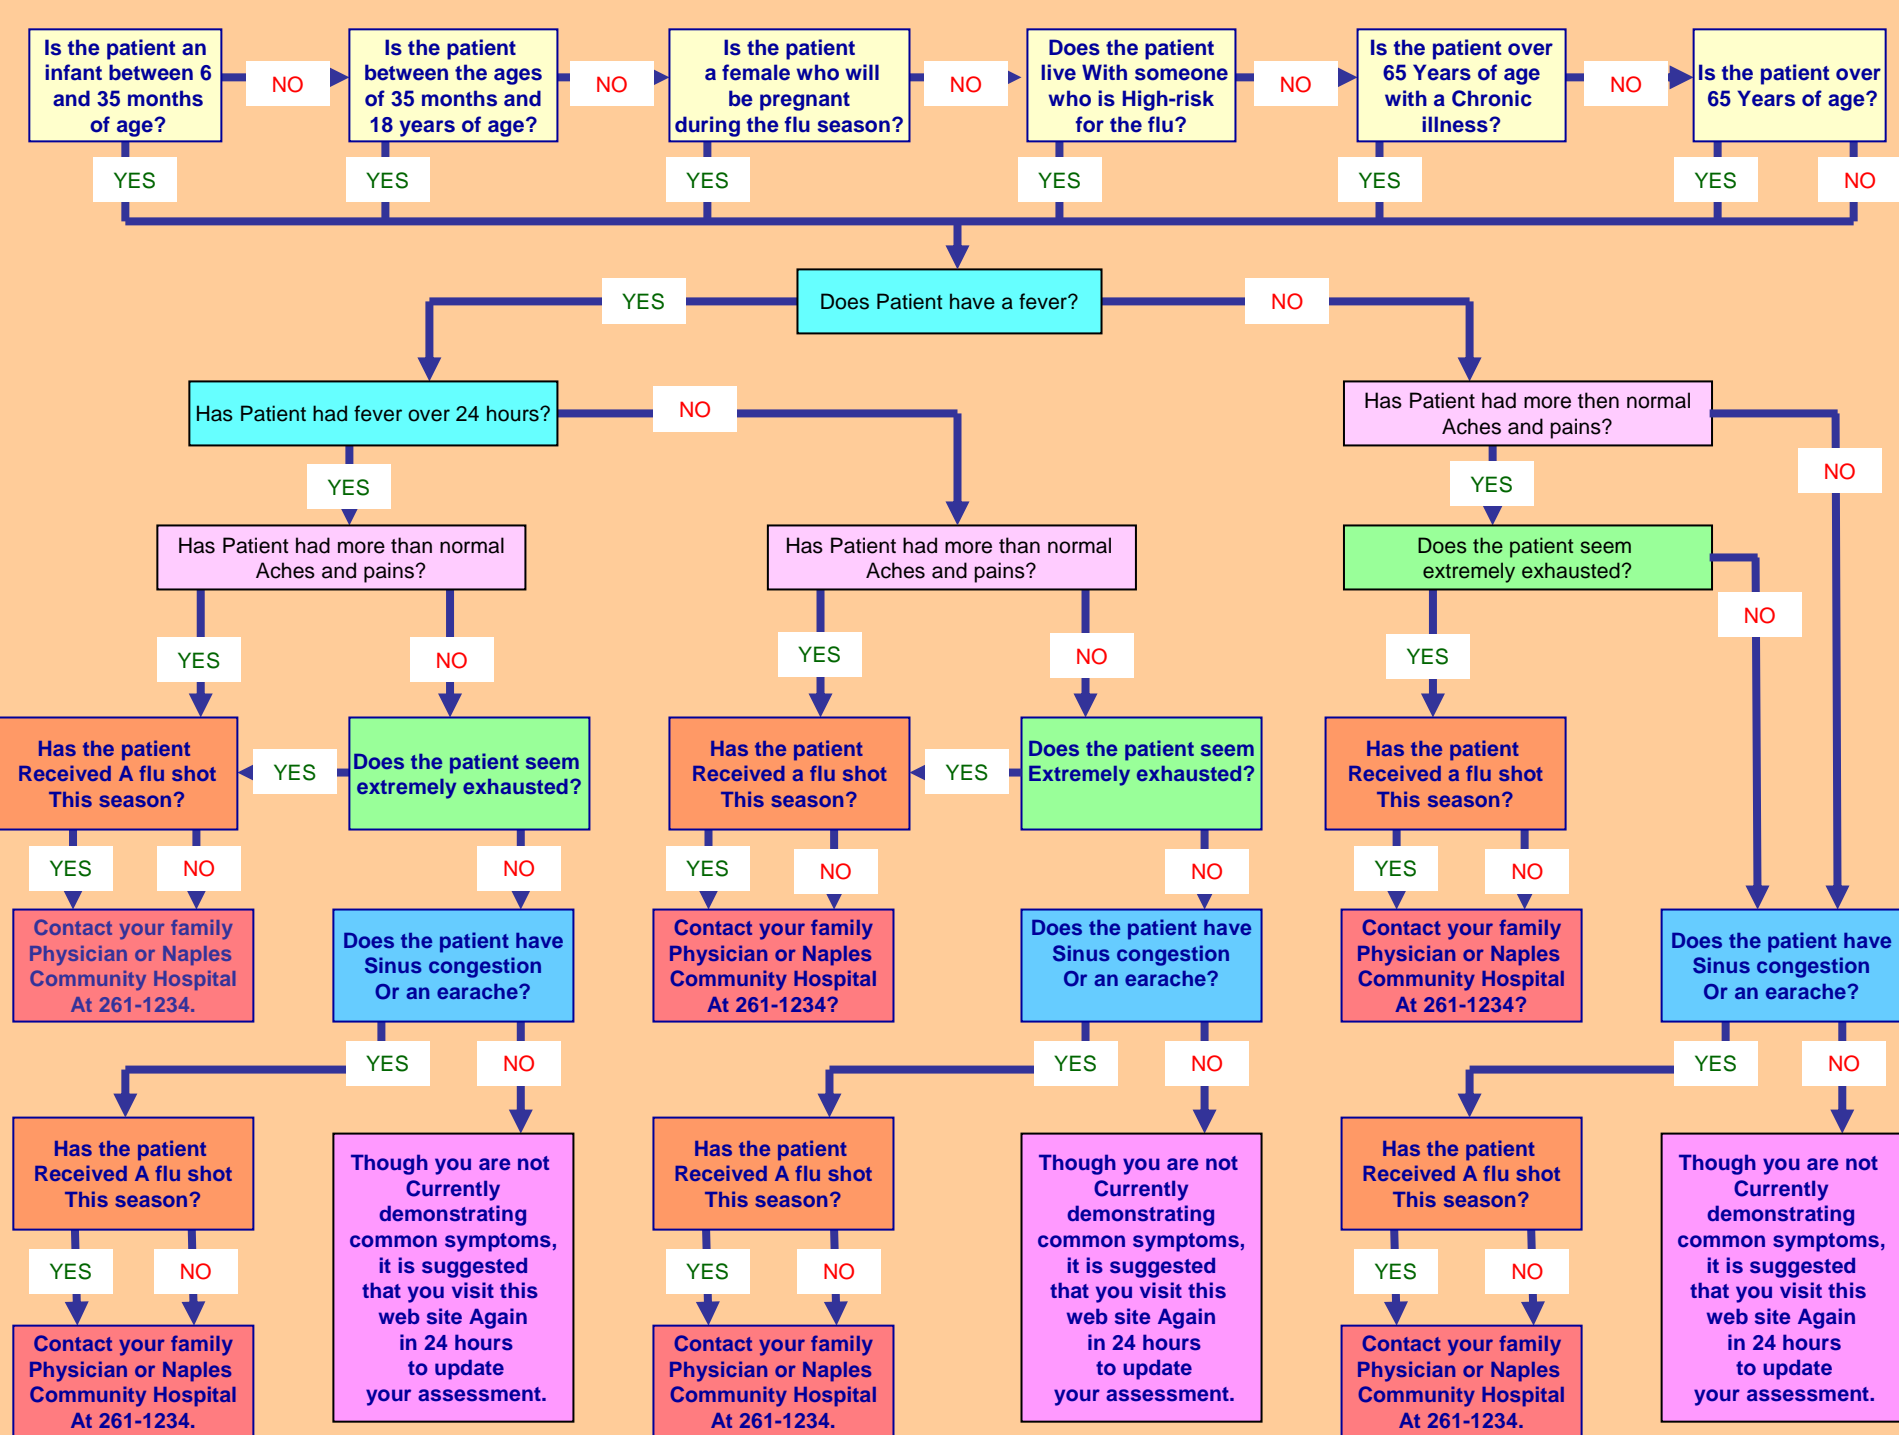

Make a Pandemic Supply Kit

Consider expanding your hurricane food supply kit for two weeks. This is important because researchers estimate that between 30-50% of the workforce will be out sick or tending to sick family at any given time during a pandemic flu. This means that you may not be able to buy adequate food supplies at various times during a pandemic.

Begin building your Pandemic Supply kit with your favorite foods now

There are several reasons/planning-contingencies for which they (county government) may want to lease rooms up to your whole facility.

- Pandemic— a world wide medical event (like the flu) whereby hospitals are overwhelmed and facilities outside the hospital need to be used for patient care. Hotel staff would be trained by the Health Department for proper cleaning/sanitization procedures.
- Mutual aid forces are coming from outside the region and need to be centrally housed.
- A large aircraft crashes and families need to be housed in a central place for security and centralized care/coordination.
- Key Gov't Staff Availability - Block of rooms need to be obtained to house key county staff for around-the-clock emergency operations.
- Bioterrorism Event - Again, the scenario would dictate that we would want to use the hospitals for the most severe cases and would want to centrally treat those who cannot stay at home. Hotel staff would be trained by the Health Department for proper cleaning/sanitization procedures

Lessons Learned

- A judgmentally challenged boater took his 23' deck boat out in 6' seas off Naples Monday and was swamped. He was removed by the Coast Guard helicopter and now is trying to locate his boat. Not that it matters now, but the boat was last seen at N26.07.14 and W82.01.04. It's a white 23' deck boat with a green bimini (probably the only swamped deck boat out there). If you happen across it, please call Ron Rataj on 239.777.2078. I told him we don't venture far from shore, but would keep an eye out for it during our normal patrols.
- Since Naples' plane is in for it's 100 hr. you might want to fly up the coast a little to the north on patrol until they resume their patrols. Be aware that flying north up the coast is a preferred VFR procedure
